

I like the Do Not Call List... I no longer have to waste time talking to telemarketers who aggravate me by refusing to get off the phone and not taking no for an answer. I'm not longer put in that awkward position. I will be very unhappy if you put the desires of the telemarketers to be able to pester consumers that want left alone, over the desires of the consumers to not have to fight with or be frustrated with being called at dinner time by a telemarker. Please do not overturn the Do Not Call List.
